New England Systems and Solutions, LLC Team Hosts Kintera Sphere Training Session

ROCKLAND, MA, ISSUED APRIL 24, 2006... Staff at New England Systems and Solutions, LLC (NESS), an affiliate of Needel, Welch & Stone, P.C., based in Rockland and specializing in software solutions and related implementations for not-for-profit and business organizations recently hosted and attended a training session for Resellers of Kintera Sphere, a software service for the Public and Government sectors.

Jim Clarkson, Principal at NESS, Kevin White, Managing Partner at Needel, Welch & Stone, P.C., Jennifer Bradley, NESS Marketing Director and Matt Yezukevich, a NESS consultant were joined by nine other Kintera Sphere Resellers, representing four companies, at the one-day training session, held at NESS headquarters.

Kintera Sphere utilizes web-based technology built with input from thousands of non-profit professionals and volunteers, providing a unified database and workflow tools that allows users to share real-time data and information. In addition, Kintera Sphere offers fundraising solutions that assist in the identification of potential donors while allowing donors to make contributions to the not-for-profit's mission via the Internet.

As a Kintera Sphere Reseller, New England Systems and Solutions, LLC will further expand its variety of accounting software solutions for existing and future clientele.

"It was a pleasure to host this session and learn about the Kintera Sphere technology and the multitude of ways in which it can help create additional revenue streams in this challenging time for not-for-profits," said Clarkson. "We look forward to offering this valuable software service to our growing list of clients."
